Introduction

The Bromeliad Society of Queensland Inc. (BSQ) is an incorporated association as defined the Incorporated Associations Act (1981).

The Society was formed in 1967 and has approximately 240 members (January 2019) – counting Family Memberships as two (2) Ordinary Members as listed later.

The Constitution of the Society is the document that governs how the Society functions. It is based on the Model Rules published by the Office of Fair Trading, Queensland.

It states the name of the Society, its aims and objectives, its method of governance, its office bearers, their duties and responsibilities, and its committee.

The Constitution provides for its own amendment, which may occur only at an Annual General Meeting or at a Special General Meeting called for that purpose.

The Constitution of the Society should be deferred to when contentious issues are being discussed, or at times when doubt exists, to ensure that the resolution will be in accordance with the Constitution.

No decision may be made at any meeting of the Society that is not in accord with the Constitution and Rules of the Society.

This manual is designed to provide the policies and operational guidance required to manage the Society on a daily basis. It includes information of roles of key committee members along with guidelines and checklists to support activities. These may be changed from time to time to reflect current practices.

The governing body for management of this manual is the Management Committee.

Section 1 – Policies of the Bromeliad Society of Queensland

The following are policies of the Bromeliad Society of Queensland:

- Meetings
- Voting at Meetings
- Membership
- Membership fees
- Code of Conduct
- Privacy Policy

1 Meetings

1. The Constitution and Rules of the Society provides for four types of meeting which may be held at all levels of the Society, each serving a different purpose and having slightly different requirements.

1.2 General Meetings

1. These meetings are held on a regular basis in order to manage the affairs of the Society. While these are generally held monthly, there is no specific requirement that the meetings be held monthly.

1.3 Management Committee Meetings

1. Management committee meetings are formal meetings of the elected office bearers and other executive committee members (as determined at the relevant AGM) held between general meetings for the purpose of conducting any business necessary to ensure that the Society's functions are managed efficiently.
2. These meetings are usually held each month except for December.
3. Minutes of all Management Committee meetings are presented in summary form to the next general meeting of the Society to inform members of actions taken.

1.4 Special General Meetings

1. Special General Meetings are held to deal with specific motions or business.
2. No other business, other than that disclosed on the notice of meeting sent to all members, can be conducted at a Special General Meeting.
3. Article 9.4 of the Constitution and Rules of the Society describes the processes by which a Special General Meeting can be called.

1.5 Annual General Meetings

1. The Annual General Meeting is the central part of the Society's governance structure, as it holds the Society accountable to its members. It is the only Society meeting specifically provided for in the Act (Part 69, Society's Incorporation Act 1991 [ACT]).
2. The Annual General Meetings of the Society must be held each year within five months after the end of the most recent financial year (e.g. between 1 January and 31 May)
3. The Act requires the annual audited financial statement for the preceding financial year to be presented to the members at the Annual General Meeting. This is an important obligatory provision in the Act (Part 73 Society's Incorporation Act 1991 [ACT]).
4. The business of the Annual General Meeting is generally restricted to the receiving of the annual reports of the President and Treasurer, the election of executive office bearers and other Executive committee members, to set membership fees and other charges, and to debate any proposals to change Articles of the Constitution and Rules of the Society that have been included as notices of motion on the notice of meeting sent to members.

1.6 Meeting Agenda

1. The business to be dealt with at any meeting of the Society is set out in the agenda, sent out prior to the meeting, by the secretary, to every member eligible to attend the proposed meeting. The agenda should be prepared by the Secretary in consultation with the Chairperson.
2. The preparation of the agenda has two objects:
 - to ensure that all items of importance will be dealt with and considered in their proper order, and
 - to give notice to members of what business has to be discussed so that they will not be taken by surprise.
3. The agenda will be prepared to reflect the type of meeting being held. A typical meeting agenda might be:
 - Chairperson opens the meeting.
 - Apologies (read by Secretary – any proxies identified at this time, also).
 - Minutes of the previous meeting (read by Secretary – may be “taken as read”).
 - Confirmation of minutes.
 - Business arising from minutes.
 - Outward and inward correspondence (read by Secretary). Correspondence received and endorsed. (Not all meetings.)
 - Business arising from correspondence. (Not all meetings.)
 - Treasurer’s report (adoption moved by treasurer). Accounts passed for payment. (Not all meetings.)
 - Reports from subcommittees. Motion for adoption. (Not all meetings.)
 - Adjourned business (if any). (Not all meetings.)
 - Special business (including any notices of motion). (Not all meetings.)
 - General business. (Not all meetings.)
 - Date of the next meeting. Chairperson closes the meeting.
4. If members wish to discuss a matter that does not appear on the agenda, they will be given an opportunity, time permitting, to bring it forward during “general business”.
5. The quorum for all meetings of the Society, the minimum number of eligible members required to be present to permit the meeting to proceed and for the business transacted to be valid and binding, is stated in Article 24 (Committee) and Article 33 (General Meeting) of the Constitution and Rule of the Society.

1.7 Meeting Minutes

1. The minutes are a brief record of the business conducted at a meeting of the Society. They must be clear and accurate, since they constitute an official report of the proceedings, and once signed by the Chairperson they can never be changed on any pretext whatsoever.
2. There are certain items which should be recorded whenever they arise. These are:
 - Type of meeting (whether general, special or annual).

- Time, place and date of meeting.
 - Name of Chairperson.
 - Names of those present.
 - Apologies for absences (and of proxies – where this is permitted)
 - Confirmation of minutes.
 - List of correspondence received and action taken – if any.
 - Financial statement.
 - Accounts for payment.
 - Reports and action taken.
 - Resolutions adopted, defeated and/or withdrawn.
 - Notices of motion – if any.
 - Date of next meeting.
 - Time at which the meeting closed.
3. It is a good idea to keep the minutes as brief as possible.
 4. All motions and amendments to motions should be recorded, as well as the names of movers and seconders of those motions and/or amendments, brief details of the discussion that occurred may be kept for record purposes.
 5. After each motion and/or amendment the word “Carried”, if passed, should appear. If the motion or amendment has not passed then the words “Not resolved”, or “Not carried”, should appear.
 6. Details of voting should not be recorded unless a member, or members, request that this be done (when a member, or members wish their opposition to the motion to be entered into the minutes, or when they abstain from voting).
 7. Minutes are read at a subsequent meeting only to ensure their accuracy, and the Chairperson should not allow discussion to be reopened on decisions previously taken.
 8. Should any member request a correction to the minutes of the previous meeting she/he should state the reasons for the request. It is usual to move a motion to amend the minutes to replace the words objected to. If this motion is passed, the motion to confirm the minutes would read: “that the minutes as amended be agreed to”.
 9. After the meeting has agreed to their accuracy, and the Chairperson has signed them, they must never be altered.

2 Voting at Meetings

1. When questions are put to the vote, members will indicate their support or opposition to the question by raising a hand.
2. The result of a vote declared on the count of hands is far less likely to be challenged than a vote taken on the voices.
3. When the chairperson decides that effective debate is at an end the question may be put by the chairperson reading the motion and then saying: "All those in favour please raise a hand". The hands are counted. "All those against". Another count is taken.
4. The chairperson declares the result by announcing: "The motion is carried (defeated)" depending on the result of the count.
5. It is not compulsory for members to vote on a question and a member (or members) may choose not to vote on any question (abstaining from voting). Members who chose to abstain do not escape responsibility for the decisions made by the meeting.
6. Where it is stipulated in the Constitution and Rules of the Society that a resolution must be passed by a certain percentage the percentage is calculated on the total members present (including the chairperson) by rounding any fractional part upwards and increasing whole numbers by one.
7. The Constitution and Rules of the Society permits the chairperson a deliberative vote only, as is the case for all other members, but the chairperson must take extreme care to ensure that her/his vote is exercised at the same time as all other members.
8. If voting is equal, and the chairperson has not used her/his deliberative vote, it cannot be used at that stage because it would have the force of a casting vote. In this case, the chairperson should declare the motion "not carried".
9. Where there is a tied vote on an important issue the chairperson would be wise not to vote but to declare the motion "not carried".
10. The one time that voting should be conducted in a manner other than by hands is at an Annual General Meeting when the election of office bearers is being undertaken.

3 Membership

1. The Constitution defines the levels of membership as:
 - Ordinary Members – refers to an individual person.
 - Life Members – refers to individual members of the society who are granted the title of ‘Life Member’.
 - Associate Members – refers to other societies which share journals with the society.
2. Ordinary Members are individual persons who have requested membership of the society. Ordinary Members may be classified from Single or Family Membership i.e. a Family Membership is made up of a number of Ordinary Members. The difference is the fees charged for each membership – see Section 4 for further information. This membership affords them a number of privileges. Each ordinary member will be entitled to vote at meetings, participate at society events such as shows and sales, and be entitled to receive a copy of the Society journal when published.
3. Life Members are individual members of the society who have been granted the title of Life Membership as recognition for significant contribution to the society over an extended period of time. The number of Life Members is limited to seven (7) or 2.5% (rounded up), whichever is the lesser, of the number of Ordinary Members as listed in the membership register in the December of the previous year of the nomination being made. The process for nominating Ordinary Members for Life Membership is defined in Attachment 1. Life Members will have the rights and privileges of an Ordinary Member.
4. Associate Members are other societies (or businesses) who share journals with the society. In the case of businesses, they may contribute to the functioning of the society through donations or other contributions on a regular basis.
5. Only those members over the age of 18 years will be entitled to vote at general meetings of the Society.

- Present a financial statement to each general meeting, ensuring sub-committee accounts are included.  - Provide advice to the meeting on the financial position of the Association in relation to any discussions on expenditure.
 - Ensure that appropriate approval is given by the association for proposed expenditure.

12.5 Management Committee Members

1. Management Committee members can greatly assist the chairperson by being attentive to the issues being discussed, putting their point of view clearly during debate and providing direction to the meeting through the careful wording of motions.
2. If you wish to raise an issue at a Management Committee/General meeting, you should prepare yourself. A prepared and organised speaker, who is respectful to Society members and presents his or her concerns or ideas in an organised, informed manner is likely to come away with a positive outcome.

3. Every member of the Management Committee should be familiar with the Society's constitution, any meeting procedures adopted by the Society and the financial and legal responsibilities of the Society.
4. Except in matters of urgency, Management Committee members make all decisions (including those recommended by subcommittees) and direct the actions to be taken, at a duly constituted meeting of the Management Committee.

12.6 Resignations/Vacating of Committee Positions

1. A member may resign from the Society at any time by giving notice in writing to the Secretary of the Society.
2. The President gives his/her signed resignation to a Vice-President, Secretary or Treasurer. Other officers give their signed resignation to the President.
3. Although the letter of resignation is tabled at the next general meeting, the position becomes vacant from the date stated on the letter. Nominations are taken to fill the position as business arising from the correspondence.
4. The Society (Management Committee) may fill any vacant office at a Management Committee meeting of the Society. That person will hold office until the next AGM.
5. This rule applies, also, if a position becomes vacant due to death of an officer or an officer is absent from three (3) consecutive meetings of the Association, of which the member has been given notice, without the Association's leave and without reasonable excuse.
6. When key positions are changed, the Office of Fair Trading is required to be notified. Forms are available from the department's web site.

12.7 Outgoing Executive Responsibilities

1. AGMs can mean a change of all or some of the executive committee. It is important to ensure that an efficient and effective change-over period is implemented for the benefit of the Society.
2. It is good corporate governance to ensure that the outgoing officer, like any business executive, ensures that the incoming officer is trained in the role they are undertaking and is provided with all the information they require to undertake that role for the good of the Society.
3. Allow a period of time for the transition to take place (up to a month), as there are many items of business to discuss and handover as well as bank signatories to finalise and bills still to be paid.
4. Society Executives should each have an executive folder that contains documents and information relevant to each executive role.

5. Maintaining and passing on records is one way that societies continually improve their operations, reducing time spent in meetings and spending more time getting on with the job.
6. A checklist for handovers of key positions is contained in Attachments 5, 6 and 7.

17 Corporate Governance

This section has been produced to raise your awareness of corporate governance. It is not intended that this information replace the need to obtain appropriate professional advice on any specific governance issues that may arise for the Society.

1. Corporate governance is a term that describes the way in which associations conduct their business, understanding all legal, financial and ethical obligations.
2. Officer bearers of the Society are, like their equivalents in other legal structures, placed in a fiduciary relationship, a position of trust within the Society and have a fiduciary obligation to act honestly and in the best interests of those they represent.

17.1 Fiduciary obligation

1. High Court definition: 'The duty to act with fidelity and trust to one another and to act in good faith for the benefit of others'.
2. In practical terms this means:
 - acting honestly;
 - acting in the best interests of the persons to whom the fiduciary duty is owed;
 - avoiding conflicts of interests between fiduciary and personal duties;
 - accounting for any benefit or gain received arising from the fiduciary relationship.

17.2 Duty of care

1. Society officers and members must exercise their powers and discharge their duties with a degree of care and diligence that a reasonable person would exercise if they:
 - were a director or officer of a corporation;
 - occupied the office held by, and had the same responsibilities within the corporation, as the director or officer.
2. The test of the reasonable person is a basic principle of common law and is a way to assess what the community expects.

17.3 Decisions made honestly and with integrity can always be defended.

1. Relief from a breach is possible where it can be demonstrated that:
 - the decision of the office bearer was made in good faith for a proper purpose, and
 - the officer did not have a material interest in the subject matter, and
 - the officer had informed themselves about the subject to the extent they believed appropriate, and
 - the officer rationally believed the judgment was in the best interests of the association.
2. The duty to act in good faith tries to assess what was the expected outcome of the actions taken. This duty implies that actions are always in the best interests of the association and for a proper purpose. Care always needs to be exercised to ensure that actions fall within the law e.g.:

- those who steal from or commit fraud against the association will attract the full rigor of the criminal law;
 - legislation relating to liquor sales, art unions, gaming, copyright, defamation, environment and local government regulations apply;
 - the reasonable person test is used to assess duty of care, skill and diligence;
 - no discrimination against others on the grounds of sex, impairment, age, race, marital or parental status.
3. It is interesting to note the following ruling involving the National Safety Council of Victoria, a large not for profit organisation. The court commented that when considering application of the Corporation Law that:
 4. “There is nothing in the code to suggest that the standard to be expected of a part time non-executive director of a not for profit company is different from the standard expected of any other director of a profit making company. Both are required to exercise a reasonable degree of care and diligence in the exercise of their powers and discharge of their duties.”

17.4 Practical issues

- Ensure financial reporting is accurate and correct processes adopted.
- Read legal documents before signing. If you don't understand, seek guidance.
- Never sign blank cheques.
- Ensure cheques have a supporting invoice, account and meeting resolution.
- Ensure you have good communication with others on the Executive team.
- Do not engage in discussions where you may have a financial or personal interest.
- Do not promote secret meetings. Keep accurate minutes. Be open, transparent and accountable.
- Have two (2) or more persons oversee the collection of cash.
- Ask for assistance if necessary.

17.5 Defamation

1. There are three key elements of defamation:
 1. There must be a defamatory matter, that is, the matter must meet the definition of 'defamation' i.e. material which 'tends to injure the personal, professional, trade or business reputation of an individual or company, or expose them to ridicule or to cause people to avoid them'.
 2. The defamatory matter must be published i.e. passed on to a third party, orally or in print.
 3. The publication must either adequately identify an individual as the subject of the publication or refer to a class leading to the identification of an individual or individuals.

17.6 How can Society members make corporate governance work?

- Pass on key information to your successor.
- Implement skilling so all office bearers are aware of their responsibilities.
- Communicate with members and let them know what is expected.
- Remember the 'big picture' – what and who we are here for.
- Commit to act quickly on issues of poor practice.
- Employ ethical standards to all actions.

- Reflect on your performance and that of your fellow members.
- Look at the performance of subcommittees to ensure they are working effectively.
- Adhere to legislation.
- Remember, everyone is different but is part of the team.
- Speak up if you have a point of view.

17.7 Summary

- Know your governing constitution, procedures and by-laws.
- Remember the Reasonable Person Test.
- Lead by example and set appropriate standards.
- Beware of defamation.

18 Meeting Procedures

1. This section provides the procedure for the conduct of meetings including motions and amendments.

18.1 General

1. The important business of any meeting is embodied in a series of motions, which are proposals put to the meeting in a formal manner for the purpose of obtaining decisions to questions under discussion.
2. Motions should be expressed in an affirmative (positive) form, and begin with the word “that”. They must be seconded and both mover and seconder must be present.
3. Motions that the chairperson considers frivolous or obstructive need not be accepted.

18.2 Original and Substantive Motions

1. An original motion is the proposition first put before the meeting. After it is amended it is called the substantive motion, and when finally passed by the meeting it becomes the resolution.
2. Each item on the agenda is dealt with in a motion, and each one is debated separately.
3. A motion should be clearly and concisely expressed, and the exact wording should be handed to the chairperson in writing, unless it appears on the agenda as a notice of motion. When a motion is written down, the value of each word can be considered, and there is less chance of making errors of logic or fact.
4. Should the chairperson accept an oral motion, the secretary should write it out at the mover’s dictation, and the chairperson should then read it aloud and ask the mover to confirm that it is correctly worded.
5. All routine business on the agenda is handled with a series of motions: “that the minutes be signed as a correct record”, “that the inward correspondence be received and the outward endorsed”, “that the reports be received and adopted”. All special and general business must be dealt with in motions.

18.3 Speaking to Motions

1. The mover of a motion may speak in support of it immediately after a seconder is found.
2. The seconder of a motion may speak immediately or wait till a later stage of the discussion.
3. It is not necessary for the seconder to vote for the motion. To prevent a motion from lapsing it may be seconded “pro forma”.
4. No discussion can be allowed till a motion is seconded. The mover of a motion may vote against it, although it means admitting a change of heart.
5. After the motion has been moved and seconded the chairperson reads out the wording of the motion and asks if that is the exact intention of the mover. Rather than being an unnecessary precaution it can save tedious discussion later on as to what the mover really meant to say.

6. The chairperson then states that the motion is open for discussion.
7. If several speakers raise their hands at once to speak it wise from the chairperson to ask if there is any opposition to the motion. Anyone, at this stage, who wishes to speak against, should be given preference.
8. No purpose is gained by allowing a string of speeches for a motion if nobody is opposed to it. In this instance the vote should be taken at once.
9. Throughout the debate the chairperson should try to select speakers alternatively for and against the motion. This is the parliamentary practice, and it makes the discussion more interesting and prevents the opposition from being swamped.

18.4 Right of Reply

1. The right of reply for the mover of the original motion is not a legal right but a courtesy that has become a custom. If opposition has been expressed to a motion, the mover has a right of reply before the original motion is put to the vote, if no amendments have been moved, and this speech concludes the debate. If there is no opposition there is no need for the chairperson to offer the right of reply.
2. In replying to the discussion the mover must not introduce any new matter, since no member will be allowed to speak in rebuttal. The mover should only answer the arguments raised, and should be called to order by the chairperson if this rule is broken.
3. When an amendment to a motion is moved, the usual practice is for the mover of the original motion to reply before the first amendment is put, but this is not obligatory. The mover of the original motion may wish to reserve the right of reply until later, when a more contentious issue is likely to come up.
4. No other person may speak more than once to a motion or an amendment. However, any member may ask a question, raise a point of order, or make an explanation, and these interventions do not prevent that member from taking part in the discussion in the ordinary way.

18.5 Withdrawing a Motion

1. The mover of a motion can withdraw it, but only with the agreement of the seconder and the consent of the meeting.]
2. Once a motion is moved and seconded it becomes the property of the meeting and cannot be withdrawn or altered by the mover without the unanimous consent of the members.
3. The unanimous consent of the members is necessary to alter the wording because a member may have supported the motion in its original form but object to its altered form. The member may have already spoken once so cannot speak in opposition to the new version. The only other way to alter a motion is by amendment.

4. Unless standing orders specify the length of speeches, no member should be allowed to speak for more than five minutes, but, generally, three minutes should be ample.

18.6 Putting the Motion

1. When the discussion on a motion has concluded, and the mover has replied, the chairperson again reads out the motion and puts it to the meeting. If agreed to, it becomes a resolution.
2. A motion that has lapsed for want of a seconder may be brought forward at a later stage of the meeting, in the hope that a seconder may then be found.
3. A motion which has been defeated may not be brought forward at the same meeting. Standing orders may specify the period of time that must elapse before a motion can be revived and whether a notice of motion is necessary.
4. The chairperson must be diligent and ensure that no motion, similar to a motion already put to the meeting and defeated, is not moved and seconded later in that same meeting.

18.7 Rescission of a Motion

1. Once a motion has been passed and become a resolution, it should not be rescinded except on notice of motion, forwarded to each eligible member. A definite period within which a resolution may not be rescinded may be stated in the standing orders, to ensure that the Society's proceedings do not become chaotic should be possible for every decision made to be immediately cancelled.
2. There are times when information received subsequent to the passing of a resolution makes it appear inadvisable to carry out the decisions made. In such a case a special meeting should be called to rescind the motion, or a notice of motion should be sent out for the next general meeting of the Society.
3. Should a resolution have been passed inadvertently in contravention of the Constitution and Rules of the Society, the chairperson may accept a motion that the resolution be declared "null and void".
4. When notice of motion has been given for a rescission it does not require a unanimous vote.

18.8 Notice of Motion

1. Measures of vital importance to the Society should never be discussed without notice, to ensure attendance of all eligible members who will be affected by the change.
2. These should include the alteration of standing orders, rescission of resolutions, and changes in policy.
3. Any member wishing to give notice of a motion should forward it in writing to the secretary, who will include it on the agenda for the next meeting.
4. When a notice of motion appears on the agenda of a general meeting it takes precedence over all but adjourned business.

5. After a notice of motion has been sent out, the mover may not alter it substantially, and no change in policy of the motion is allowed without further notice.
6. Any amendment moved to a motion on notice must not change its policy, must not exceed the scope of the notice, and must not involve the Society in a greater obligation than the notice specifies.
7. No motion on notice shall be presented to a meeting in the absence of the mover unless the mover has given written authority to some other member to move it.

18.9 Amendments

1. An amendment is a motion that seeks to make the original motion more acceptable to the meeting by altering or amending it in some way.
2. To avoid confusion, the amending motion is called an amendment, but it is really a new motion, governed by most of the rules applying to other motions. If amendments were not allowed, members would have to accept or reject the original motion as it stood.
3. Several amendments may be moved to the same original motion, but each one must be moved, seconded and discussed separately. They may be withdrawn only under the same conditions that apply to motions.
4. Only one amendment can be placed before the meeting at any one time, and each must be disposed of before the next is debated.
5. Amendments must not conflict with decisions already made, and they must be relevant to the subject matter of the original motion. Amendments should not use a direct negative (by inserting “not” in the original motion), but they may offer an alternative proposal that differs entirely from the original motion.

18.10 The Correct Order of Amendments

1. Amendments must be handled by the chairperson in the correct order. They should be taken in sequence, as they affect the various sections of the motion.
2. To avoid difficulties all proposed amendments should be handed up to the chairperson, in writing, at the beginning of the discussion.
3. There are four types of amendments proposing different procedures:
 - To leave out certain words
 - To leave out certain words in order to insert or add others
 - To insert or add certain words
 - To leave out all the words after the first word “that”, and substitute others with a different meaning.

18.11 Speaking to Amendments

1. An amendment is a separate question; any members may speak to it, even if they have already spoken to the original motion or to an earlier amendment. This includes the mover and the seconder of the original motion or an earlier amendment.

2. Once an amendment is moved, discussion must be confined to the section of the original motion which it is proposed to alter, and the whole motion can no longer be debated.
3. An important point to remember is that no member may move or second an amendment after speaking to the original motion or to a previous amendment. No member may move or second more than one amendment to the same original motion. This is to ensure that one person is prevented from monopolising the time of the meeting by moving fresh amendments to the original motion.
4. Some members may be disadvantaged by strict adherence to these rules. When a complex proposal is put to the meeting it may be better for the chairperson to accept a motion to suspend standing orders, resolve into committee, and allow a set period of discussion on the question. This may enable possible amendments to be formed, and the processes by which these amendments can be formally moved and seconded.
5. After several opinions have been heard from those for and against the amendment, the chairperson may decide to ask for one more speaker from each side, and then give the mover a chance to exercise a right of reply. The mover should then sum up the arguments, without adding any new ideas.

18.12 Putting the Amendment

1. The chairperson reads the original motion, followed by the amendment, and then says: "All those in favour of the amendment, please raise your hand." "All those against?" "The amendment is carried. The substantive motion now reads: "That ..."
2. The substantive motion is now open for further amendment.

18.13 Putting the Substantive Motion

1. It may seem strange, or at the very least unnecessary, to vote on the substantive motion once all the amendments have been accepted by the meeting, or there being no further amendments proposed, but it is still possible for the whole proposal to be defeated.
2. It is also important that the chairperson allows a brief period for debate of the substantive motion, after all amendments have been put. The substantive motion may be quite different from the original motion and this short period of time may be quite useful for members who may be undecided in regard to support or opposition to the question as it is now framed.
3. The chairperson reads the substantive motion, in the wording determined by the acceptance of amendments put to the meeting, and shall follow the same procedure as for 14.6 above.
4. If a majority of members vote in favour of the substantive motion the chairperson shall declare it carried. In the event of a majority of members voting against the substantive motion the chairperson shall declare it lost.

18.14 Points of Order

1. Members may ask the chairperson a question on procedure at any time other than when another member is speaking.

2. Members may also raise a point of order if they feel there is any infringement of the accepted rules of procedure.
3. A point of order should be raised immediately the suspected breach occurs.
4. When a point of order is raised the member speaking should stop till the question is resolved.
5. The member making a point of order should raise a hand and say: “Madam Chair, is it in order that the speaker ...?” The objection should be stated briefly.
6. Points of order can be raised on the following grounds:
 - That the offending speaker is going beyond the scope of the question;
 - That the speaker is breaking a rule of the Society;
 - That the speaker is using unparliamentary language;
 - That the speaker is infringing Standing Orders, or some accepted rule of debate.
7. Members cannot raise a point of order simply because the speaker says something they disagree with or consider incorrect.

18.15 Points of Explanation

1. If members’ comments are misquoted or grossly distorted, the member may raise a hand and ask permission of the chairperson to make a point of explanation.
2. A point of explanation is made only by courtesy of the chairperson and the meeting, and this procedure should only be used to clear up a vital question. The member should correct the statements wrongly attributed, and not proceed to make a speech.

18.16 Chairperson’s Ruling

1. It is the democratic right of members to disagree with the chairperson’s rulings.
2. A motion of dissent in the chairperson’ ruling must be moved and seconded and put to the meeting without any general discussion. The mover may make a brief statement and the chairperson may explain why the ruling was given.
3. The motion is then put to the meeting by the chairperson, and if the majority disagrees with the decision the ruling is reversed and business continues. The chairperson is not required to leave the chair while the vote is taken – this is not a vote of no confidence.

18.17 Chairperson’s Ruling

1. The chairperson has the right to bring the discussion of any business to a close and to put the question to the vote, but not before allowing sufficient time for the subject to be debated adequately, and an opportunity for a variety of opinions to be expressed.
2. Theoretically, every person at the meeting has a legal right to be heard, but where debate has become one-sided, the chairperson should ask for a speaker supporting the opposing point of view. If no such speaker is forthcoming the chairperson can then offer the mover of the motion to exercise her/his right of reply.

3. If speakers have begun to repeat the arguments used by other members, the chairperson can ask for someone else to speak who has new material to offer. If no such speaker can be found the debate can be closed and the question put to the vote.
4. In situations where discussion is still lively after a reasonable time has elapsed, the chairperson can announce that two more speakers will be heard, one for and one against the motion, and then the vote will be taken.
5. Should the debate become contentious, with strong feelings aroused, it is wise for the chairperson to preserve an appearance of impartiality by asking for a motion from the meeting: "that the question be put".
6. In conducting the meeting the chairperson has a number of important matters to consider. It is imperative that all members are permitted their right to speak, but the chairperson must always be conscious of the need to manage the meeting in such a manner that all of the business on the agenda for the meeting will be completed within the time permitted.

18.18 Procedural Motions

1. There are three types of motions which can be used to bring a discussion to a close:
 - Call for an immediate decision (the closure);
 - Shelve the subject indefinitely (evading the question);
 - Postpone the decision to a future date (the adjournment).
2. The method used to force an immediate decision is the closure, which takes the form:

"that the question be now put". This is the only procedural motion that is allowed to interrupt a speaker. The chairperson can refuse to accept this motion on the grounds that the subject has not been debated sufficiently, or that the speaker has not received a fair hearing.
3. A seconder for this motion is not required and no debate is allowed. The motion is carried by a simple majority, and the mover of the original motion is called on immediately to exercise the right of reply before the question is put to the vote.
4. If the closure is moved on an amendment it applies to the amendment only.
5. If the closure is defeated debate on the question continues.
6. To prevent a vote being taken (evading the question) there is a peculiarly named device called "the previous question", which really means "that the question not now be put".
7. This motion can be moved on motions, but not on amendments. If agreed to, the original motion is shelved indefinitely. If defeated, the vote on the original motion must be taken immediately.
8. The chairperson may refuse to accept this motion since it ends discussion, whichever way the vote goes.

9. A better, more simple device to avoid taking a vote on the question under discussion is by moving: “that the meeting proceed to the next business”. If agreed to, the business before the meeting is shelved and the next business on the agenda is called.
10. This motion can be moved while an amendment is before the meeting and if it is carried the discussion reverts to the original motion.
11. Another method of postponing a decision on any question is to move the adjournment of the debate for a specified time, usually to the next meeting. The usual form of this motion is: “that the motion lay on the table until”
12. This motion is normally used to allow members more time to obtain the necessary information to enable an informed decision to be made. The mover of the original motion has the right to reopen the debate on the motion at the next meeting.

18.19 Rules for procedural motions

1. The rules are:
 - They may not be moved or seconded by anyone who has already participated in the debate.
 - No discussion of these motions is allowed.
 - All of these motions can be moved on the original motion, or on amendments, except for the “previous question”.
 - The only amendment allowed is on the adjournment motion, and this only in reference to the time and place of the resumption of debate on the original motion (or an amendment).

19 Subcommittees

1. The Society as an organisation may establish sub-committees for specific or special purposes and for purposes it considers appropriate.
2. When a sub-committee is established for a specific or special purpose it does not automatically mean that the funds raised by that sub-committee are special purpose funds. They are passed to the general account and used to meet the aims and objectives of the Society, which are also the aims and objectives of a subcommittee of the Society.
3. A sub-committee is NOT an autonomous body, but rather a group working within the Society framework, established to assist with the effective function of the Society in specific areas and answerable to the Society in all respects.
4. A sub-committee, like the Society, has as its core function, the need to act, in all instances, in a way that will bring about positive outcomes for the members.
5. The Society constitution, which reflects the legislation, contains details of the establishment and operation of sub-committees including membership, management of funds and reporting requirements.
6. A sub-committee must be established and operated in a manner consistent with the objectives and functions of the Society and must follow any directions and resolutions of the Society to the sub-committee.
7. The Society, at a duly constituted meeting, determines the need for a sub-committee and elects the members of the sub-committee.
8. The Society appoints a Chair, Secretary and if funds are to be expended by the sub-committee, a Treasurer. Members of the sub-committee may meet to recommend appointments to these positions and any such recommendation is subject to the approval of the Society before it takes effect.
9. Note the terminology used for the subcommittee executive positions. This distinction between the Chair of the subcommittee and the President of the Society can help members of both the P&C and the subcommittee remember the chain of command. There is only one President, the President of the Association.
10. Members of the Society's executive committee are eligible to hold an officer position on a subcommittee.
11. The executive committee of the Society and the officers of the sub-committee should develop a set of operating guidelines that clearly outline the processes and procedures to be used by the sub-committee and how they will interact with the Society. These operating guidelines must be approved by the Society before they are enacted.
12. The agenda of the AGM of the Society includes 'confirmation of continuing sub-committees of the Society' (including appointment of members of sub-committees) which provides an ideal opportunity for the Society to review and reaffirm the purpose and structure of its sub-committees and appoint / reappoint the membership of its sub-committees.

21.1.2.1 Competitions at Monthly Meetings

1. There are two types of competitions conducted at monthly meetings.
 - Mini Show – held up to 4 times per year and judged by qualified or trainee judges
 - Popular Vote – held up to 7 times per year and judged by members and visitors at the meeting.
2. Both types of competition consist of three divisions and have the same entry requirements for all Competitors:
 - NOVICE – open to all members of the Society who have not competed before or have not won the Novice Division in an Annual Mini Show in previous years. (New members with extensive experience in growing bromeliads may be expected to automatically transfer to the Intermediate or Advanced Division depending on their level of experience).
 - INTERMEDIATE – open to any member who, in previous years, has won the Novice Division of the Annual Mini Show competition or has extensive bromeliad growing experience. Promotion to this Division occurs automatically in the year following winning the Novice Division in the overall annual Mini Show competition.
 - ADVANCED – for all other members not covered by the requirements of Novice or Intermediate Divisions. Promotion to this Division from the Intermediate Division occurs when the member has won the Intermediate Division annual Mini Show awards twice.
3. For any Monthly Meeting Competition, competitors must sign the Competitor Agreement at the end of this section. A signature is required only once per membership.

21.1.2.1.1 Format of the Mini Show

1. This competition is held up to four times a year and consists of up to five classes which vary for each show; a schedule of the plants admissible to each class of the competition is issued at the start of each year and published in Bromeliaceae.
2. Competitors may enter up to three (3) plants per class. Competitors may only enter one entry of each species, hybrid or cultivar in a class. Plants must be the property of the exhibitor and must have been in his or her custody for the previous 6 months.
3. Plant registration. Each competitor has a separate form for the competition and is required to fill in the details of the plant/s they are entering for each separate class. Competition stewards are not to fill out the forms for the competitors.

4. All plants must be given a plant number, issued by the Steward, and this number should be recorded on the Competitor's entry form next to the plant name.
5. All plants entered must comply with the details specified in the schedule. Plants that do not comply should be removed from the competition table.
6. It is the responsibility of the Competition Steward to ensure that the plants in each class comply with the schedule for that show. If any doubts or questions arise, the Chief Judge should be consulted.
7. Before judging, to expedite the judging process, all plants must be arranged in their separate divisions and in the separate classes within each division.

21.1.2.1.2 Judging the entries

1. A judging panel is appointed before judging commences. This is usually arranged by the President or Chief Judge.
2. A form titled 'MINI SHOW JUDGES CHOICE' is used by the competition steward to record the allocated number of the plants judged to be first, second and third in each class of each section.
3. The Competition Steward should assist the judging panel by moving plants for detailed inspection. Judges are not to handle competition entries.

21.1.2.1.3 Awarding of points

1. Points are awarded separately for each plant in each class and for all four classes in each division as follows:
 - first - 3 points
 - second - 2 points
 - third – 1 point.
2. At the end of the judging, the name of the entrant and the name of the plant that were placed first, second and third in each class and each division should be entered on 'MINI SHOW MEETING RESULTS' form. The original form is retained by the Competition Steward and results entered into the Competition Database. Results should be forwarded to the Secretary, Publicity Officer, Webmaster and Editor.
3. Finally, all competition points registered on the entry form for each competitor are tallied and entered on the 'MINI SHOW AGGREGATE RESULTS' database for the appropriate month.
4. After the last Mini Show for the year all points registered on the Aggregate Results form should be tallied to determine the final results. The first and second placed competitors' results entered on the Mini Show Annual Results form. The Committee will use these results to allocate an appropriate award to the winning competitors (first and second). Copies of these results are also provided to the Secretary, Publicity Officer, Webmaster and Editor.

21.1.2.1.4 Format of Popular Vote Competition

1. This competition has is held up to seven times a year and has two separate sections:

- Bromeliad plants.
 - Decorative display incorporating bromeliads.
2. Bromeliad plants competition - competitors are allowed to enter three plants each in their division. Competitors may only enter one entry of each species, hybrid or cultivar in a class. There is no other restriction on the type of bromeliads entered except those covering cleanliness. Plants must be the property of the exhibitor and must have been in his or her custody for the previous 6 months.
 3. There is only one type of form used in this part of the competition; a separate copy of the form is used for each division and all competitors in each division use the same form.
 4. The competitor enters his/her/their name and the name of the plant/s being entered. Competition Stewards are not required to fill out the forms for the competitors.
 5. All plants must be given a plant number, issued by the Competition Steward and this number should be recorded on the competitor's entry next to the plant name.
 6. Decorative Display competition - open to all members irrespective of the division to which they normally belong. A separate form is used and competitors enter their name and details of the display.

21.1.2.1.5 Judging of Entries

1. Plants and Decorative displays are judged by the members and visitors at the meeting. Each voter is given a single voting slip for each division and a separate voting slip for the Decorative Display section. They record their single vote (by plant number or display number) on the appropriate slip and sign the reverse of the voting slip. The voting slips are then collated by the Competition Stewards and the plant with most votes in each division is awarded first place in that division. Second and third places are also awarded in each division.

21.1.2.1.6 Awarding of points

1. Points are awarded separately for each plant in each division as follows –
 - first - 3 points
 - second - 2 points
 - third – 1 point.
2. At the end of the judging the name of the entrant and the name of the plant that were placed first, second and third in each division is entered on 'POPULAR VOTE MEETING RESULTS' form. The results are entered by the Competition Steward into the database and copies given to the Secretary, Webmaster and Editor.
3. Finally, all competition points registered on the entry form for each competitor should be tallied and entered on the 'POPULAR VOTE AGGREGATE RESULTS' form for the appropriate month.

4. After the last Popular Vote for the year all points registered on the Aggregate Results form are tallied to determine the final results and first and second placed competitors' results entered on the Popular Vote Annual Results form. The Committee will use these results to allocate an appropriate award to the winner and runner up of the competition. Copies of these results should also be provided to the Secretary, Webmaster and Editor.

24.3 Glossary of Terms

25 Attachment 3 – Tips and Procedures for Treasurer

1. There is no uniform system of record-keeping set down. (Currently BSQ uses Quicken as its accounting package.) You choose the method best suited to your Society's needs. Any method chosen must fit with the compliance issues.
2. A simple Excel spreadsheet accounting package may be used.
3. The Treasurer is the first in line to keep an eye on anything to do with the Society's finances. This does not necessarily mean that the Treasurer actually handles the cash, or keeps details of all accounts personally. Some duties can be delegated to others.
4. The Treasurer is responsible for seeing that Society members are provided with all the information on what is happening to the Society's money.
5. The Treasurer ensures that:
 - a complete record of accounts is kept, not only by her/himself, but also by any subcommittee Treasurers;
 - the adopted bookkeeping system is not confusing, and works well;
 - those handling cash are protected by an appropriate check-up system that will not give a third party room to make unfounded accusations, which cannot be refuted because of poor practices;
 - a minimum check-up system has two people count any cash together, and initial the entry in the record book.
 - bills are paid on time, to the Society's best advantage;
 - the Society is advised of what money it owes so that it does not overspend, to everyone's embarrassment.
6. Get bank statements monthly. The cut-off date can be about ten days before your Management Committee meeting, giving you time to prepare statements, cheques and so on. Check the cheque stubs and deposit slips against the bank statement. This will quickly show up any internal record problems, and also tell you of any extra bank charges or interest payments. The latter must be written in the cashbook.
7. If the auditor is not a trained accountant, it is worth talking with one even if this costs the Society a consultant's fee. Ask for advice on setting up your cashbook or electronic accounting package; on the number of dissections (column break-downs) needed to tell an adequate story on income and expenditure; on how to build up statements and take out monthly balances. Keep your cashbook or electronic accounting package up to date. Your cashbook tells the story of where the money has come from and gone to.
8. Use a profit and loss statement when the Society has any long-term fundraising projects, e.g. a special show. You have to include stock-take figures for this to be accurate.
9. If done monthly, it can allow problems to be identified early.

10. A budget is a useful way to plan the year, not only for you as a Treasurer, but also for the whole Society. It gives goals to aim for, arranges priorities on where and when money is to be spent and reduces the level of 'off the cuff' or ad hoc decision-making on spending.
11. You should complete the Society's annual statements as soon as possible and hand it over to the auditor, with receipts, cheque stubs, deposit books, minute books and other records quickly.
12. Where there is more than one account, separate statements should be prepared for audit. The Society Treasurer also prepares an all-inclusive statement.
13. Subcommittees should not hold large amounts of money in their bank accounts in the normal course of events. Amounts over the requirement of working capital should be transferred to the BSQ general account.

Select Database from the drop down and new boxes appear. Select Insert Database Field. Select Name and Insert. Check that there is still a $ sign in front of PRICE.
 - To do this, double click on the Barcode and a properties window will open. This barcode window is a bit different but same process. At the middle left of the window is a Data Source box with a menu. Select Database from the drop down and new boxes appear. Select Insert DB Field. Select Barcode and Insert. When you go back to the Master the barcode will have CODE39 above it and Database through the middle of the barcode.

15. Plug the Printer in to the power and to a USB port on the computer. Turn it on at the back.
16. Now select File and Print Preview. The sticker from the top line of the database should come up. If OK, go to Print and be careful to print only one barcode selecting 1 as Number of Labels in Quantity. This just checks connection to the printer is all OK.
17. Select File and Print. In the print menu Quantity section, select Read From Database Field and then select No to Print. Before you hit the OK button, you then need to select the appropriate records from the full barcode list in the database. Click Select in the Records section of the window. An image of the full database will appear. Unselect all and then proceed down the list selecting those barcodes with a number in the Number to print column. Check the number of barcodes to be printed matches the sum of the number in column 4 of the barcode database.
18. If you are doing a print of one of a group of amended barcodes for testing, you select the number of barcodes to be printed in the quantity field i.e. 20 if 20 amended codes. Then use the SELECT button in the records area to select those to print. It will print one of each.
19. If all checks OK, PRINT. It should start spitting out labels.
20. Best to roll them as they come. You can use the STOP or PAUSE button to suspend printing while you:
 - Catch up with the roll;
 - Cut the roll as a new grower's tickets are coming;
 - You replace the ink roll – there will be an alert;
 - You replace the paper - there will be an alert;
 - Just press the STOP again to restart.
21. Ink roll.

See the Printer instruction sheet. Tricks – ribbon comes off the back of the back roller and winds under the waste roller at the front after passing under the print head. The matt side of the film is down to the paper. Only press down on the blue tab top right to relock the head.
22. Paper:

See the Printer instruction sheet. Tricks – There is a bar at the lower back part of the base section which sits over the label feed and senses the breaks between labels. Move the arrow to be over the paper. The paper roll should be located hard up against the left edge as you look into the printer.
23. Let the Treasurer know how much individuals should be billed at 5 cents each.

25.3 Setting up the databases and Cash registers

1. There is a Master file with all the data PLU List Excel Master
2. This file generates list of barcodes from PLUs and grower details. You may need to do some copying down to add more growers. Their ID number has to match the group number allocated in the Cash register which assigns the grower number when you add one. We are up to Group 28 – you should check the database and take the next available number. The four-digit ID should be 6000 plus the grower/group number i.e. 6029 etc.
3. Those people who print their own labels or will use a Gold Coast number need individual entry of data.
4. If someone wishes to print their own labels, we will supply the barcode details to correspond to each price point. They must then supply a sample of each code so we can check that the register is reading them correctly. A scanned copy printed from an email has sufficed so far as the basis for checking.
5. Those using Gold Coast Society Labels need to supply copies of the label for each price point they intend to use. They need to be reminded that they can NOT introduce further labels for different price points without advising us and being advised the new prices are set up for use.

25.3.1 Updating Masters

1. Open the Excel sheet labelled PLU List Excel Master and go to the sheet labelled “PLU List”
2. Make any changes needed to add the grower, price points, and ID in the Master file. “PLU List” sheet
3. Copy the entire data set out of the other work sheet “Barcode Label List” in the PLU Master and do a Paste Special of values into Barcode database.xls file. Use Format cells to ensure the “barcode” column is in number format with no digits after the decimal point. Similarly make sure entries in the “No to print” are also numeric not text.
4. For all changes, copy all the amended rows for columns A to column H excluding columns after H and paste into the excel file PLU Input PLU Source.csv file. Make sure the “barcode” column is numeric no decimals. Delete the columns headed “Grower” and “Price” i.e. C and, D. Save the file as a csv file type.

25.3.2 Updating cash registers

1. Open Sampos Express program – User Name is BSQ with no password.
2. Go to the Setup page – select on menu column on left and open “Edit and Create PLUs”. A new window will open.
3. Set up the Group info at the lower part of the window. IDs are already established to 35. For those edit the details. Enter the Grower number 29 etc. and the description. Leave 35 as reserved for problem scan entries. If we need to go past 34 we need to extend the memory in the ECRs.

4. Go to the tools menu in Sampos Express and select Import.Export.
5. Select Import PLUs and in the field list unselect the last field "{8}Supplier Code"
6. Select Do Operation. You will be asked to confirm and to browse to select the input file.
This is what you prepared as PLU Input PLU Source.csv
7. The window will have blue bars moving on right edge and will report success.
8. Make sure the register is turned on, connected to the USB port.
 - The port on the ECR is labelled PC.
 - Use the Comms Port Locator selected from the Utilities Menu bar along the top to be sure you have the right USB port on the computer in use.
 - It needs to be a serial port so you should run the program from the mini CD to set one up as a serial bus if needed.
 - Turn the Register Control Key to REG position and make sure all operations are completed. "Register Mode" should show in the register window.
9. It is simpler for a small number of changes to change the prices in the SETUP – Edit and Create PLUs window.
 - Click on the amended group e.g. Buderim Broms and then double click to get the list of PLUs for that Grower.
 - Change the price in the lower window.
 - Check the description (long and short) reflect the price point.
 - Check the barcode. If it needs changing, you have to Delete the current and then Add the new. Bar code will be 4 digits for PLU top left check, 4 digits for Group as ID, and five digits for price with zeros at front $10 is 00010 and $250 is 00250.
 - Go through all the PLUs for the growers with changes and check – price appears 4 times – in the long description, the ECR description, the price at the bottom and the last digits of the barcode.
10. Now go to the TODAY screen in Sampos express selected on left column and select Send Changes and updates to ECRs. Select the ECR number which is connected. It is useful to do the Comms test to verify connections. Then click Send Update and Yes on the pop up screen asking for confirmation.
11. Do only one ECR and then print one each of the new barcodes on the barcode printer. Keep these to enter into the grower master sheets in the black binder.
12. Plug in the scanner and scan all the new barcodes.
 - Check the description which comes on paper roll and ECR window match the value and grower.
 - If a code won't scan it needs adjustment back in Sampos Express.
 - Fix price errors in Sampos Express.
 - Then again send updated data to the ECR.

13. Check all is OK and then update the second Register. Check all the new barcodes scan Ok on the second register.

Bromeliad Society of Queensland Inc.

SALES AGREEMENT

This document gives witness to the existence of an agency agreement between The Bromeliad Society of Queensland Inc. (BSQ) hereafter referred to as the agent and the plant seller hereafter referred to as the principal.

The BSQ is not registered for GST nor is it required to be so registered under current requirements at law.

The principal contracts with the BSQ to sell product on behalf of the principal and agrees that the division of the sales proceeds received from the agent's customers of the principal's property being tagged and suitably identifiable plants and other plant related material will be divided in proportion as agreed in the conditions for the sale of plants, the principal will receive the proceeds of the sales less commission, (the commission rate will be advised 30 days prior to an event) and the commission percentage is retained by the agent. The collection of these distinct portions is made concurrently and comes about by a customer paying the agent for the product.

The principal appoints the BSQ as its agent for the express purposes of selling agency product on behalf of the principal and agrees that the sales proceeds collected on behalf of the principal less the commission will be paid to the principle by the agent includes any relevant GST for which the principal may be liable in the normal course of business if the principal is required to be so registered. The principal further agrees and acknowledges that the agent adds its commission of (commission rate as advised 30 days prior to an event) onto a price which the principal has advised to the agent includes relevant GST if applicable to the principal.

The agent therefore is collecting monies from its customers that are on sales of product which are inclusive of GST on behalf of the principal and recognizes that it is to remit the applicable sales proceeds and applicable GST if any to the principal under this agreement. It always remains the responsibility of the principal to correctly account for any applicable GST. The agent also has the express power to retain its share to the total process.

The agent agrees to remit to the principal specific funds collected from the on selling of the suitably identified plant based material to its own customers. The agent further agrees to advise the principal of details of the amounts collected on behalf of the agent's sales, which contain the principal's product and to reimburse the principle as soon as possible after these funds are collected from the agent's customers.

ATTACHMENT 1 TO SALES AGREEMENT - SALES STICKER PREPARATION AND ATTACHMENT

The Bromeliad Society of Queensland uses a barcode pricing system. All sellers are required to use this method for selling plants.

Each seller will be allocated a unique number to identify them as a seller and may select prices in one dollar ($1.00) increments. The barcode will include the price of the plant and the seller name. A sample is shown below.

Sellers may choose to write the name of the plant with black or blue waterproof pens or markers on the label in a clear space. Care should be taken not to overwrite the barcode.

Where a seller has the capability to print their own labels, this may be done providing the barcode complies with BSQ requirements. This may include printing additional information such as a plant name or other information on the label.

Labels are provided by the Treasurer and small cost.

32.3 Sales at Shows

BSQ takes the security of grower's plants seriously. With over 4000 plants sold, some errors will be made. However, some have expressed concern over mixing sold and unsold plants. To assist in ensuring losses are minimised the following arrangements will apply for the Show:

- All plants brought into the venue are to be offered for sale and those unsold taken away at the end of the Show.
- Swaps or personal orders placed prior to the show should be transacted outside the venue.
- Growers and helpers can select plants on the Friday during set up but all such plants are to be paid for and removed from the venue on Friday evening. The sales area will be manned from 3:30pm to 5:30pm on Friday.
- Plant minding for this show will only be for unsold plants. Plants paid for at the sales area must be removed from the venue.
- Plants intended for purchase by individuals should be placed in the plant minding area and not "stashed" around the venue.
